— design concept —

The kettle carried by the US Army is practical, but it is not vacuum. It's a big sales point to make a vacuum canteen for travel, with a compass to the lid, a stainless steel pot for barbecue at the bottom, and a colorful backpack. At beginning Mr. Berger, who is the general manager of Solid drew the sketch of the canteen. After several years of continuous program adjustment and structural research and development, this product was finally produced in 2015 and won the German "iF" design award in March 2016.
